

Behind the scenes and often unrecognized are the fundraising development staffs of the nonprofit agencies. Throughout the summer, members of the professional group, Association of Fundraising Professionals, (AFP) meet to sharpen their skills and share problem solving, hear from experts in the development field, and participate in workshops and symposiums.

The Santa Barbara/Ventura Counties Chapters, with 147 members, alternate the sites of monthly lunch meetings with speakers from the two communities.

The 2007 executive board members from Santa Barbara nonprofit agencies include: co-president Tamara Skov, Visiting Nurse and Hospice Care; Caroline Grange, Santa Barbara Museum of Natural History; Rebecca Anderson, Scholarship Foundation of Santa Barbara; Joshua Chan, Santa Barbara Botanic Garden; Andrea McFarling, Marymount of Santa Barbara; Carla Long, Cottage Health System; Anne Kratz, Fielding Graduate University; Monica Intaglietta, Child Abuse Listening and Mediation; Leslie Esposito, Dyslexia Awareness & Resource Center; Anne Dewey, Lotusland Foundation; Bonnie Campbell, Santa Barbara Neighborhood Clinics; Rochelle Rose, Sansum Diabetes Research Institute; Elaine Mah Best, Work Training Programs Inc.

From left, Development Directors for local nonprofit organizations: Anne Kratz, Fielding Graduate University; Mitch Sloan, California State University Channel Islands; Elaine Mah Best, Work Training Programs Inc; and Andrea McFarling, Marymount of Santa Barbara, at the training luncheon for members of the Association of Fundraising Professionals.

Directors of Development from left: Anne Dewey, for Lotusland Foundation; Monica Intaglietta for CALM (Child Abuse Listening and Mediation); and Bonnie Campbell, for Santa Barbara Neighborhood Clinics.